GILMER TOWNSHIP SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Smith Memorial building the annual convention of the Gilmer Township Sunday School Association was held, there being a fairly good attendance despite the inclement weather. The meeting was called to order by President S. Clay Williams and after the devotional exercises Rev. Melton Clark spoke on "The Aim and Method of Sunday School Work." The speaker was heard with much interest. The reports from the schools in the township were quite creditable, a large number of the schools having sent in their reports prior to the meeting.

All the old officers were re-elected. S. Clay Williams is president of the association and T. A. Glascock is secretary and treasurer.

Tied to His Bed And Set on Fire

Salisbury, March 20.—Sam Young, a negro who lives on Dr. C. E. Smith's farm near Dunn's Mountain, was the principal in a near tragedy last night which might have terminated his life, according to a story he brought to the city early this morning.

Last night he and his wife retired in the best of humor. Some time before day he was awakened by fire which was burning his bed. He found both his arms had been tied so that he was unable to rise, and not until the rope on one arm had burned off could he release himself.

His face was badly burned.

His wife, too, was gone. He believes she was responsible for his being tied and was here for officers to have her arrested.

Miss Bessie Hackney, who has been visiting in Durham, has returned home.

Col. Chas. E. Johnson is one of the most largely interested capitalists of Raleigh. He is president of the company operating the Raleigh street railway and power plant here and it is understood that the company may absorb the electric power interests here. Northern and eastern capital is financing the new company, the incorporators named in the charter being merely the nominal resident incorporators.

Merrimon, one of the most prominent citizens of the city, has yielded to the solicitations of friends and consented to offer for the commissionership of Accounts and Finances, which includes the office of mayor under the commission form of government. Mr. Merrimon's announcement appears in The Telegram this morning. He has strong backing in his race and will doubtless prove a large factor in the contest. Mr. Merrimon's fitness for the position is unquestioned and his friends are sanguine of his success.

CAPT. JOHN LYON DIES SUDDENLY

His many friends throughout the city and state will regret to learn of the death of Capt. John F. Lyon, which occurred yesterday morning at Chocowinity, near Washington, N. C., where Mr. Lyon went some weeks ago to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. A. Blount, Jr. When he left Capt. Lyon was in his usual health and his death comes as a shock to his relatives and friends.

The remains will be brought to Greensboro this morning on the early train from Raleigh and will be carried to the residence of T. A. Lyon, 221 Lindsay street. The funeral will be held from West Market Street Methodist church, of which the deceased had for years been a consistent member, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. K. McLarty, assisted by Rev. Melton Clark, of the First Presbyterian church. The following will act as pall-bearers: R. R. King, John N. Wilson, G. C. Hampton, L. J. Brandt, Neil Ellington, J. Ed Albright. Capt. Lyon was a lifelong Mason and the services at the grave will be in charge of the local Masons.

Capt. Lyon was born in Granville county July 17, 1814, being in his ninety-seventh year. He moved to Orange county in 1843 where he lived until several years ago when he came to Greensboro to reside. He held public office in Orange for a number of years, representing the county several times in the legislature and serving as a county commissioner. In 1841 he was married to Miss Attelia Holden, sister of Gov. Holden, and of this union there were eleven children, seven of whom survive. Mrs. Lyon died in 1897. The surviving children are T. A. and W. S. Lyon, of this city; J. E. Lyon, of Durham; Mrs. Laura Watkins, of Hillsboro; Mrs. Fannie Watkins, of Winston-Salem; Mrs. Jesse Dixon, of Durham, and Mrs. W. A. Blount, Jr., of Chocowinity.

MEETING OF ROAD COMMISSIONERS

The County Commissioners and the Road Commissioners appointed last week held a joint meeting yesterday for the purpose of discussing road work in general and especially methods whereby the roads of the county could be kept in repair at the least expense to the county. It was an encouraging fact that fifty-two out of fifty-three of the road commissioners were present and the absent one wrote that he was detained on account of sickness in his family. Fifty-four were appointed, but one stated that he could not serve. John T. Suits of Jamestown was appointed yesterday to fill the vacancy.

The meeting was held in the court room and rarely does one find so large a body of men gathered to discuss good roads in earnest as the body assembled yesterday. Every man was anxious to know more about good roads and how to keep them good after a start is made. The split log drag was held up by those who have seen it in operation as one of the simplest and least expensive devices for smoothing down dirt roads. S. L. Trogdon was called upon and he made an enthusiastic talk regarding the good roads movement in this and other states and declared that he saw no reason why Guilford should not remain as at present—at the head of the counties of North Carolina so far as good roads were concerned; that a little effort on the part of all the people would give Guilford even better roads than she has at present. Several other talks along the same line were made by others.

It was stated that something like $12,000 would be put at the disposal of the township road commissioners, this to be augmented by the $1.50 tax of each person in the townships subject to road duty. This appropriation will be increased by reason of the fact that the property assessment will be increased next June. The matter of increasing the road tax to 15 cents on the $100 valuation from the present rate of 12 1-3 cents was favorably discussed.

The commissioners in each township will organize and begin work at once. They will have supervision over all the dirt roads. The county commissioners will have a general supervision over the work and also entire control of the convict forces, which will be used almost exclusively in doing permanent road work.

Elks Fair Ready to Open Monday

The soliciting committee appointed by the Elks to secure donations for the fair next week report that they have received a donation from practically every person approached and naturally are very much encouraged at their success. The canvass will be continued through today and tomorrow.

The ladies who are to have charge of certain features of the fair met yesterday afternoon and made plans for their work. The erection of the booths will begin at once and everything will be in readiness by Saturday for the fair.

S. A. Tefft, of Hardford, Conn., and J. M. Robertson, of Augusta, Ga., of the Phoenix Insurance Company, were here yesterday to confer with R. W. Murray. They went to Durham yesterday afternoon and will return here today.

"Holy City" Sung Here Last Evening

Last evening a large audience greeted the soloists and chorus who took part in the cantata, Gaul's "Holy City," given in the annex of the West Market Street church. The work of training the chorus and directing the performance was in the hands of Dr. Wheeler, who acquitted himself in a manner worthy of more than passing mention. The orchestra did professional work, and perhaps gave as much pleasure as did any feature of the entertainment. The soloists, Mrs. Hobgood, Miss Neff, Messrs. Clapp, Ljung, and Peele, did excellent work, considering the meagre opportunity which they had to practice with the orchestra. The same comment might be made upon the work of the chorus. At the close of the evening's performance there were many congratulations offered on behalf of the singers, the preceptor ,and the orchestra.

Secretary For Y. P. Missionary Conference

Harry Lewis Hicks, field secretary of the Young People's Missionary Movement, made three able addresses in the city Sunday, being heard at each church he visited by a large congregation. Mr. Hicks is thoroughly familiar with the work of the young people and his addresses were especially enjoyed by the young people interested in missionary work and in mission study classes. He pointed out the fact that the young people are the ones who must become missionaries and in order to have them volunteer for service they must be made to understand the conditions in the foreign fields and the great and pressing need for missionaries. He spoke most entertainingly of the work being done by the Young People's Missionary Movement in interesting the young people. Mr. Hicks left last night for New York City.

While in Greensboro Mr. Hicks perfected arrangements with Miss J. Lucena Spalding, of DeLand, Fla., whereby Miss Spalding becomes secretary of the Young People's Missionary Conference to be held in Asheville June 30 to July 9, 1911. This conference will afford an exceptional opportunity for training Christian workers, especially along the lines of missionary and Sunday school work and in the mission study methods. Last year Greensboro sent sixteen delegates to the conference at Asheville and this year it is believed that twice that number will attend the sessions, at which there will be addresses and conferences. Miss Spalding will leave this morning for Asheville to begin preparations for the summer conference.

Moss Case Before Judge Pritchard

Deputy Marshal J. M. Baley will leave this morning with W. V. Moss for Asheville where the habeas corpus hearing will be before Judge Pritchard. The case was set for yesterday, but was continued until today in order to allow the government time to prepare the case. District Attorney Holton was hard at work getting the facts together.

The government will examine the following witnesses: F. P. Marshall, J. C. Pierce, W. W. King, Jr., John Abraham, John T. Rees and Porter Apple. District Attorney Holton was seen yesterday afternoon and he stated that he felt sure that the writ of habeas corpus would be denied by Judge Pritchard when the facts were laid before him. Counsel for the defendant were equally confident of securing the writ.

In case the writ is granted Moss will be released, otherwise he will be held for the June term of United States court. The maximum penalty for committing the offense of impersonating a revenue officer for the purpose of defrauding is a fine of $1,000 or three years in the United States prison, or both in the discretion of the court.

Greensboro Officers Go to Mexican Border

Major S. Glenn Brown and Capt. E. D. Kuykendall have received notice to the effect that they have been recommended for appointment as representatives of the state guard at the maneuvers in Texas. They are expecting to be ordered to the front about April 1. A letter received in this city from an officer stationed along the border states that the impression prevails among the troops that Japan is the cause of this assembling of troops.

From Sunday's Winston-Salem Journal.

Mrs. Herbert McKay and daughter, Miss Wylanta, left yesterday afternoon for Greensboro, where they will spend a few days with relatives and friends.

Miss Arlene Sherrell left yesterday afternoon for Greensboro to spend Sunday with relatives.

Miss Mattie Crews left last night for Greensboro, where she is spending Sunday with relatives and friends.

BOSSES AND INTERESTS WILL OPPOSE WILSON FOR PRESIDENT.

That the New Jersey machine and Wall Street interests, as well as other political machines in the Democratic party and all the moral outlaw business combinations of the country will oppose the nomination of Woodrow Wilson as the Democratic candidate for President in the opinion of the Philadelphia North American. Governor Wilson is entirely too independent and honest to please these interests.

The North American has been getting a line on political conditions in the Democratic party as they relate to the probable movement for the nomination of Wilson, and the situation is summed up as follows:

"Back of the sullen hostility of State Chairman James R. Nugent and his legislative puppets to the Geran election reforms bill is the determination of the Smith-Nugent machine to prevent New Jersey from sending delegates to the national Democratic convention in 1912 for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson. The machine, at the instance of Wall street interests, has undertaken to deliver the New Jersey delegation for Harmon.

"Since his defeat of James Smith, Jr., for the United States senatorship, Governor Wilson has been put on the blacklist of the big interests. Through Smith and George B. M. Harvey, the former Princeton head was picked as a safe, sound and conservative Democrat of the old standpat type, who might safely be backed for either first or second place on the national ticket. For once, though, the interests goldbricked themselves. Wilson, accepting a machine nomination, proceeded to make a campaign in which he declared his independence, his antagonism to machine and corporation domination, and his progressive views on government.

"The bosses listened throughout the campaign and laughed up their sleeves. They thought they knew Wilson, and they didn't believe he meant it, although he told them plainly that he did. Then came the fight against Smith, his defeat and the sudden awakening of the bosses and the interests. It was pathetic. The governor gave no sign that he knew or cared, but proceeded to blaze out a progressive course for himself, to burn his bridges and also to take up the task of putting the machine out of business."

DEMOCRACY'S OPPORTUNITY.

The Democratic party has before it one of the greatest opportunities in the history of the party organization in the approaching extra session of Congress and in the regular session to follow. That is the opportunity to show the country that it is the party of the whole people and not of any particular or favored class. According to its true standards the Democratic party is neither the party of the so-called favored classes or special interests nor of the less favored classes or masses, but is the party which believes in giving all classes a "square deal"; which believes in justice for all and in special privileges for none.

The opportunity Democracy has now, on being entrusted with some measure of power and a large measure of responsibility, after being shorn of national power and, almost entirely of national influence, for a number of years, is the opportunity to demonstrate to the nation that modern Democracy is true to the foundation principles of the party and to the policies which have, mainly, governed its course during the greater part of the period of the life of the Republic.

It is the opportunity to give an effective demonstration of the practical workings of the "square deal" in political action. It is the opportunity to steer a straight, conservative course, as opposed to radicalism on the one hand and to the contentions of the reactionaries on the other. It is the opportunity to be progressive without being violently opposed to everything connected with the present order of government and society. It is the opportunity to take a stand which will make plain to the country the fact that the Democratic party stands for old fashioned, honest and economical administration of the national government; for relief from the iniquitous burdens of a protective tariff.

Democracy may make the most of this opportunity regardless of what is accomplished in concrete form in Congress. It is quite possible that a Republican President and Senate may block Democratic action; but it is also possible that enough insurgent Republican Senators may vote with the Democrats to make certain the adoption of some relief measures, and it is possible that a Republican President may concur in some of these measures; but whether this situation develops or not, the Democrats will make their attitude plain to the country at the extra session. They will either demonstrate that their protestations of the past were sincere or insincere; that they propose to keep promises made to the people or to break them; that the party is true to its principles or false to them; that the country's hope of relief is well founded on Democracy or that a grievous mistake was made when the people turned to Democracy for relief from the intolerable burdens and the iniquities of standpat Republicanism.

Democracy's opportunity looms before the party mountain high and of immense girth. It is the only chance the party has had in years. What will Democracy do with it?

The country is looking to the Democrats in Congress for relief and reform measures, for honest legislation in the interest of the welfare of the majority; particularly, for tariff reform legislation and for measures which will curb monopolies and restrain trusts; for measures which will safeguard the vital interests of the people and their government.

If the Democratic party remains true to its well established principles it cannot approve of class legislation of any kind—class legislation for the so-called special interests nor for the smaller interests or the masses of the people. Equal justice to all is a cardinal Democratic doctrine, and is what the people of the country expect the party to undertake to render to this country in giving its account. Certain interests and classes have so long been specially favored, however, under Republican misrule, that it is morally right to err, if error is made, in giving the people who have suffered from oppressive measure the fullest and most complete relief, even to the temporary detriment of the classes which have so long been exploiting the masses. This will be slight reparation for the people who have for decades been robbed by a protective tariff and other oppressive measures of Republicanism.

For these reasons it is evident that the men who wield the power of the Democratic organization in Congress ought to be men entirely free from the taint of special interest domination. The tools of the interests will assuredly serve their masters if they are entrusted with any measure of power. The legitimate business interests of the country should stand on the same plane with the interests of the masses and should be accorded exact justice, and Democrats who occupy positions favorable to this course may be placed on guard; but alleged Democrats, who are in reality the personal representatives of the predatory, privileged, plundering and, therefore, unlawful and vastly harmful, combinations of the country should not be given additional opportunity to serve their masters by being placed at the head of important committees or otherwise afforded the opportunity to throttle legislation designed for the relief and for the good of the country.

The outlaw financial and business combinations, which have no party affiliation except such as the exigencies of their desires demand, would as soon work through one party as another, provided they get what they want—which is in some cases to be let alone and in other cases class legislation favorable to their schemes. These combinations are continuously working for their own ends and they are at present at work, doubtless, in the Democratic organization, with the view of being able to control it and prevent the passage of measures upon which the country as a whole has placed the mark of approval.

It is unfortunate for the Democratic organization that certain men in Congress who are likely to be placed in positions of power through custom and courtesy, belong to the undesirable classes known as obstructionists and reactionaries. In other words, they are the Democratic prototypes of the Cannon wing of the Republican organization. One of these Democrats is Congressman Adamson of Georgia, who has a claim upon the chairmanship of the House committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Another is Congressman Fitzgerald of New York, who is likely to be chairman of the House committee on Appropriations. Fitzgerald's record for voting wrong on questions affecting the public welfare is better known than Adamson's. The latter, however, has consistently opposed reform of all kinds and is especially opposed to railroad regulation and to pure food laws. Adamson sees every question from the special privilege point of view and rarely fails to vote that way.

While Adamson and Fitzgerald are the ranking Democratic members of these committees and are, therefore, entitled to the chairmanship of their respective committees, it will prove unfortunate for the party if they are placed in these positions of influence and power. Both are certain to exert themselves to the utmost to prevent Democracy from making the most of its opportunity, and both are certain to pursue a course which will bring condemnation upon and confusion to the party.

THAT COURT ISSUE.

The following illuminating paragraph appeared in the last issue of The High Point Review. It is given to the readers of The Telegram without comment.

"The Review is strictly against the Guilford Court proposition. It is simply a Greensboro move altogether, a centralization of everything possible in the way of "courts" to Greensboro. The people should arise in righteous indignation and appeal to the Commissioners not to adopt any such measure. It is an inconvenience to the people, to say the least, a string, as it were, tied to the people pulling them to Greensboro against their will."

Two million native born Irishmen live in this country. If they had remained in Ireland that country's chances for obtaining home rule would have been materially increased, but municipal politics in the great cities of this country would probably not have developed into the intensely interesting game it now is.

Texas is going to vote on a constitutional amendment providing for State-wide prohibition, on July 22nd. People who are not familiar with conditions in Texas think that State is a country where the people are as fond of drink as are the folks in "Old Kentucky." This is a mistaken idea. Prohibition sentiment is strong in Texas, and it would not be surprising if the State should vote for constitutional prohibition.

A Good Knocker.

When the extra session convenes they will find that Uncle Joe laid down the gavel, but picked up the hammer—and he is a good knocker.—Memphis Commercial.

Like Old Times.

President Taft's closest imitation of Roosevelt is the Ballinger letter. It lacked nothing but the vocabulary.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

An Expensive Colt.

A French veterinarian claims to have made an old horse young again by injecting radium into him. But with radium selling at a billion dollars an ounce or thereabouts, would not that be rather an expensive colt?—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

BATIK ART WORK.

A New Old Craft That Is Being Revived Nowadays.

Batik work is a simple process of tracing designs in melted wax upon textile fabrics, wood, leather or paper and then dyeing or staining all other portions of the work. When the coloring process is complete the wax is either removed with benzine or by applying a heated iron over blotting paper or a soft piece of cloth. All surfaces covered with batik are impervious to dyes or stain, thus a design in white will be found on a colored ground.

Effective color combinations are obtained by applying further designs in wax on the already colored portions and repeating the staining process until the desired depth of color is obtained. There are many methods of batik suited to a wide range of materials, and a fine batik outfit with which to carry on the work may be purchased, including the right dyes and stains, as well as whitewood articles already designed. Copies, too, are provided, and a guidebook giving explicit directions for the work.

Besides proving a fascinating pastime, batik painting may be made a profitable employment, as well executed specimens bring good prices. To create a demand for the work and to secure high prices, each piece made must represent an individual treatment; the very irregularities caused by the vagaries of the melted wax (not strictly under the artist's control) tend toward freedom from conventionality, and by no other method could like results be obtained.

The illustrations show designs that are exceptionally free from convention. The crepe de chine scarf, for instance, of silvery gray crape has a bizarre design in dots and interlacing circles in white. This effect was secured by simply tracing the pattern by the aid of the batik pencil in the melted wax on white cotton crepe de chine and sending it to the dyers with the instructions to clean off the wax after dyeing the material. In the center there is a little darker color introduced to give relief to the design. This was added afterward with pure white water color stain.

The design for blotter cover in which the windmill figures is carried out in blue tones and is most artistic.

Useful Card Prizes.

A recent hostess gave as prizes to a bridge party a book that had proved a household friend to her. It was a manual containing recipes for all sorts of repairs and stain removing, with other useful household information.

As the binding of these books was anything but handsome she covered each one herself with glazed English chintz in gay patterns. This could be wiped off with a damp cloth when soiled.

She had the title of the book printed on a decorative label and pasted on the outside cover.

The cost of these prizes was small, and they will prove of lasting use to the women who receive them.

Almost every housekeeper has one such book by which she goes, and the idea of making it artistic and giving it to her friends should prove enticing.

Chicken a la King.

Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a chafing dish Add half a green pepper, chopped fine, and cook three or four minutes without allowing the butter to brown. Add two level tablespoonfuls of flour and half a teaspoonful of salt and cook until frothy. Then add one pint of cream and stir until the sauce thickens Set over hot water and add half a cup of button mushrooms, cut in halves, and two and one-half cupfuls of cooked chicken, cut in cubes, also paprika if desired. Serve on toast.

UNIVERSITY NEWS NOTES

Chapel Hill, March 20.—Coach Clancy is manager of the Winston-Salem league team for the coming summer. He will bring his professional squad down to Chapel Hill April 1st for a weeks work against the varsity in order to put the Carolina squad in good shape for the Virginia contests in Greensboro April 8 and 10.

Dr. Edwin Mimms spoke to the women's clubs of New Bern Tuesday on the "Literary Associations of Florence."

Dean E. K. Graham made a speech at the State Normal College last Friday night and attended a meeting of the executive committee of the State Literary and Historical Association in Raleigh on Saturday. Dean Graham was elected president of this association for the current year at the meeting held in Raleigh during January.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the University in Raleigh last week it was decided to use the first $50,000 appropriation, for the erection of an up-to-date building for the school of medicine. The medical department will welcome a new home to replace its present quarters in Person hall, one of the oldest buildings on the campus. Person hall was used for a hall for the chapel exercises in the student days of Governor Vance. The building will be named after Dr. Caldwell, first president of the University.

The new officers of the Y. M. C. A. were publicly installed Tuesday night. They are J. A. Lockhart, president; F. B. Drane, vice president; C. E. Noran, secretary; W. D. Barbee, treasurer. In his speech made at the opening of the meeting, retiring president, E. W. Turlington told of the present condition of the association. There are 315 members of the association and 238 in Bible study outside of the Sunday School Bible classes. Eight local Sunday school are taught by student members of the association. Ninety-five men on an average attend the Tuesday night meetings of the association. President Venable and Dean Graham were present and made short encouraging talks.

Attended Father's Funeral.

J. A. Eason has returned from Smithfield where he was called last week on account of the death of his father, who received injuries in a runaway on last Monday that resulted fatally. His father was returning home from Selma and the horses ran away throwing him down an embankment at a bridge. The funeral was held last Tuesday afternoon.

In compliance with the request of certain citizens I announce myself a candidate for the office of Mayor and Commissioner of Public Accounts and Finances. B. H. MERRIMON.

GOOD THING FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Many Matters of Practical Value Taught In State Colleges.

THAT matrimony is still taken seriously in the west is proved by the state agricultural colleges.

Under the heads of domestic science and of practical farming successful attempts are being made to give the young people of both sexes the right kind of education to fit them for happy marriages as well as the battles of life.

The girls learn not only how to cook, but how to sew, to market, how a house should be fitted with plumbing, the principles of food assimilation and metabolism, therapeutic cookery and many other things of practical value.

The girls and boys are encouraged to become acquainted. The social element is carefully cultivated. Awkward boys learn the amenities belonging to the parlor and awkward girls learn how to pour tea and converse easily.

After a theory is worked out on the blackboard the students in domestic science have to prove it by actual demonstration. For instance, they have to provide dinners and luncheons for a fixed price, and these meals are served in turn to the students, who purchase tickets varying in price.

At all the best agricultural colleges a girl learns all she needs to know about a farm. Besides the usual courses in buttermaking and chicken raising she learns practical farming, zoology, chemistry, landscape and window gardening, etc. She is also taught how to paint her house and decorate her own walls.

When she leaves the college she is absolutely able to run on an economical and practical plan a home in the country either for herself or as partner to an equally energetic husband.

A new era is opening up to the farmer's wife, and it is the agricultural college which she has to thank for this.

It teaches her to do her work twice as quickly and well as her grandmother did it and have enough energy left to enjoy herself in the evenings.

It gives her enough scientific knowledge to be able to carry on the farm herself in case her parents or her husband dies.

The agricultural college, take it all the way through, is a mighty good thing for girls nowadays.

The Revival of Pewter.

Everything is pewter nowadays. It has come back into fashion with a vengeance. Besides the very old fashioned utensils, like the candle lamp here illustrated, which might have been taken from a colonial mansion, pewter in a glorified form is used for milady's boudoir and dressing table. Even brushes, combs and large mirrors on stands are made of the metal.

PEWTER CANDLE LAMP.

The Latest Complexion Beautifier.

It consists of a mask of wet clay, which gradually hardens on the face, removing wrinkles and coarse pores.

It comes in a jar, and the victim, being careful not to move her face in laughter or conversation, applies the thick greenish paste liberally. Soon it dries off to a somewhat lighter shade and forms a stiff crust. This is allowed to stay on for fifteen minutes or even all night if the patient can bear it. It is then removed by picking off piece by piece. Anything for beauty!

State Sunday School Convention, April 26-28

The greatest Sunday school meeting of the year in North Carolina will take place in High Point, April 26-28.

The music will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butler. Mr. Butler has been for several years past with Dr. R. A. Torrey in his evangelistic tours. He is well known as a leader of evangelistic singing and as a soloist of unusual ability. His wife has a very sweet soprano voice. Their solos and duets are inspiring and up-lifting.

The railroads have granted reduced rates from all parts of the State. The tickets will be sold on the certificate plan and will be one and one-half fare, plus 50c. for the round trip. Tickets will be on sale from April 22-26, with final limit May 2nd.

Each county is entitled to as many delegates as there are townships in the county. This does not mean that every township must be represented, but that the basis of delegation shall be the number of townships in the county.

All delegates will pay a registration fee of $1.00. This will be paid at High Point when assignment to home is made. All delegates will receive: Entertainment during the convention, a seat in the convention with county delegation, a souvenir badge, a convention program, a right to voice and vote in all the deliberations of the body, helpful literature of various kinds.

Entertainment will be provided all delegates by the citizens of High Point, during the three days of the convention.

Mr. Marion Lawrance, general secretary and Mr. W. N. Hartshorn, chairman executive committee, will be the representatives of the International Sunday School Association.

The program is one of the very best ever prepared on Sunday school work.

This convention is interdenominational. Those desiring to attend should send their names to their county association secretary or to J. Van Carter, general secretary, Raleigh, and receive appointment as a delegate.

Mur, Mammy, and Mother, push your boys out and let them sell Mother's Joy and get the bicycle. It is a great lesson for them. For sale by Conyers & Sykes.

Large Increase in Exports.

Washington, March 20.—A $51,500,000 increase in exports was the showing made by American commerce during February as compared with the same month last year. This increase extended over the entire list of exports but was especially marked in unmanufactured cotton, corn and leaf tobacco.

For the eight months ending with February the increase of exports over the corresponding period of last year was $221,100,000.

Unmanufactured cotton exported during February amounted to $58,100,000 an increase of 104 per cent..; corn, $5,600,000, an increase of 55.1 per cent.; leaf tobacco $2,700,000, an increase of 58 per cent.

Glason Proved to be Human Automaton

A large crowd assembled in the store room of the Cheek-Huston Piano Company last night to find out just what "Glason" was made of. For the past week at regular intervals Glason had been the center attraction in their window and a huge box grew fuller and fuller of guesses deposited by those who viewed Glason at the piano.

At the proper hour Glason turned to the crowd waiting outside and motioned for them to come in. A regular stampede followed and the entire room was filled in a minute while hundreds gathered on the sidewalk. Many exclamations of astonishment were heard when Glason mounted a piano and began to make a speech. At the same time there were many "I told you so's" from those who had been convinced that Glason was human.

Mr. Glason, whose first name is Leo, soon convinced everyone that he was human. He made a most interesting address and the crowd felt amply repaid for visiting the store to learn what Glason was made of.

Mr. Cheek stated last night that he had aroused more curiosity than he had counted on. He had provided cards for guesses and a glance at a few of these showed that the firm could laugh for time to come, some answers being most amusing to one on the inside and there were about 4,000 of the answers. Mr. Glason travels from town to town. This, he states, was his first experience as a pianist.

Mr. Lindley Expects Half Crop of Fruit

J. Van Lindley was asked yesterday regarding the damage to the fruit crop by the cold snap and frost last week. Mr. Lindley stated that the peaches and plums were damaged considerably, but the apples were not hurt. He said there would be about half a crop of peaches and plums and a full crop of pears, provided there was no further damage from cold or frost. Mr. Lindley had just returned from a trip to Southern Pines and he stated that he expected about half a crop from his orchards there.

Good Roads.

In all the discussions of good roads, I have been much struck with the entire absence of one very important condition for keeping up good roads, and that is the width of the tires on wagons hauling heavy loads.

One reason why our dirt roads become so soon impassable is because while they are still wet and soft after a rain, they are driven over with heavy loaded wagons with narrow tires (one and one fourth to one and five eighths inches wide) and instead of rolling on top of the ground they cut through, making a rut. The next wagon following goes in the same rut cutting it deeper, and before the ruts are worn down, perhaps there comes a rain, the ruts are filled with water, the whole road bed is softened, the ruts are cut deeper still, and the road soon becomes impassable.

Whereas had broad tires been used, the surface of the road would have been packed down and smoothed by succeeding wagons, and when the rain came the water would have run off and left the roadbed firm and ready for use.

Then too our macadam roads suffer from narrow tires, for the heavy loads going continually in the same track finally cause a slight rut which holds a little water, this softens the surface and makes succeeding loads cut a little deeper and often during a long wet spell in the winter, quite a number of places in the macadam will be cut through, necessitating expensive repairs, which could have been avoided with broad tired wagons.

It would be worth many thousand dollars to the county each year if all the loaded wagons driven over the roads had tires proportioned in width to the loads they carried.

The farmers are the ones who would most likely object strongly to the change from narrow to broad tires, on account of the extra cost to them. But in buying new wagons the cost would be very little more, and to put new rims and tires on the old wheels, while costing from $10 to $15 per set, would save the farmer in one or two years more than the improvement would cost.

The ordinary farmer uses his wagon much more on his own farm than he does on the roads to town, and in hauling loads over plowed fields and all about the farm, he would find that the broad tires running on top of the ground would enable him to haul much larger loads, and also avoid cutting up the ground as much as with the narrow tires, each point of which is worth money to the farmer if rightly considered.

In very many sections of the country where they have good roads, no loads are allowed to be hauled on narrow tires, and it is found in consequence that the roads are much less expensive to keep in repair.

Reply to Rev. D. M. Litaker.

In the Saturday morning Telegram Rev. Mr. Litaker of this city, comes to the front with a definition of the Boy Scout movement. He seems to take a real pride in holding out the fact that Mr. Taft is president and Mr. Roosevelt is vice-president of the organization, while the writer himself attaches to his own name the fact that he is also connected with the organization as a Scout master.

The Scout movement may have a few good qualities incorporated in the obligations, for instance, it requires the scouts not to hurt even an animal, but why did Roosevelt, the vice-president of the movement spend several months butchering helpless animals recently? And why should Taft lead a movement to help mothers train their children, after commuting the sentence of a villian who bought and sold the virtue, blood and bodies of our fair daughters?

Now a further word as to the military feature of the movement. Boys at the age of twelve years are admitted and until the age of eighteen they are taught military discipline. They grow accustomed to the uniforms and are carefully drilled, go into encampments and in every possible way they are taught to obey their commanders. They become "soldierized" at the age of eighteen, then no longer a Scout. The scout movement admits members between the ages of 12 and 18 years. No one is admitted after he is eighteen years of age.

Walk into the postoffic and you can see the many colored pictures calling for young men to enlist in the standing army or United States navy between the ages of 18 and 45 years. The ex-scout has been carefully drilled and as Rev. Mr. Litaker puts it, "taught unquestioned obedience to officers," and he is therefore less expensive to teach and becomes at once a trained wholesale murderer and the Boy Scout movement gave the first lesson.

The Dick military law makes every able bodied man in the United States a soldier if necessary, between the ages of 18 and 45 years. The Boy Scout movement snares the boy of tender youth, teaches him the fundamental principles of legalized murder and dismisses him at the age of 18 into the hands of a professional body of destructionists and spillers of man's blood.

Beware of the Boy Scout movement, it is the valued adjunct to the infamous Dick Military Law. How can a man be a Scout Master and at the same time be a follower of Him of whom the Angels sang, "Peace on earth, good will to men?"

DR. SMITH RETURNS.

Former Professor of English in University of North Carolina Arrives in Baltimore After Honorary Visit to Berlin.

Friends of Dr. and Mrs. C. Alphonso Smith will be interested to learn that they have landed in New York on their return from Berlin, where Dr. Smith spent the past five months as Roosevelt professor, delivering lectures to students and faculty of the University of Berlin on English literature. Dr. Smith is now a member of the faculty of the University of Virginia. With reference to his work, the following from the Paris edition of The New York Herald is of interest:

"Dr. C. Alphonso Smith, who has been representing the American educational world in the capacity of the Roosevelt professor at the Berlin University for the past five months, left today for America. Together with Mrs. Smith and their little son, Dr. Smith goes directly from Bremerhaven to Baltimore, and will at once resume his duties as professor of English at the University of Virginia.

"The policy of international exchange has never before brought to Berlin a man who has more closely identified himself with both German and American interests, and Dr. and Mrs. Smith leave behind them a large circle of friends.

"In addition to the course of lectures which Dr. Smith has delivered at this university, he has been in constant demand as a public speaker. His last address was in behalf of the Ladies' Union of the American church which is now engaged in raising funds for a new parish house.

"The drawing-rooms of the Willard School, which Dr. Alice Luce, the president of the Ladies' Union, had offered for the occasion, were filled to overflowing with representatives members of the American colony, anxious to hear the last of Dr. Smith's illuminating talks. His subject was Joel Chandler Harris and his 'Uncle Remus Tales.'

"On Monday morning Dr. Smith took leave of his students at the university, and a large number of guests, in an address which had for its subject, 'Mark Twain and the Characteristics of American Humor.' When the rector magnificus of the university, Dr. Rubner, rose to thank Dr. Smith for the interest he has awakened in American literature, the tone of his address was eulogistic and cordial, and testified to the close relations existing between Dr. Smith and his Berlin colleagues.

"In addition to an edition de luxe of Kaiser Maximilian's Prayer Book with marginal drawings by Albert Durer, which was a gift to Dr. Smith from his colleagues, he was also the recipient of a complete set of Thedor Fontane's writings, presented by the students who have attended his lectures."

John T. Pannill, of Reidsville, who has been quite ill for several days at his home, was brought to St. Leo's hospital Sunday for treatment.

GOSSIP OF THE STAGE.

Margaret Illington, who has closed her season, is reading manuscripts to find a new play.

Thais, the spectacular drama by Paul Wilstach, was given in New York last week, with great success.

Dolly Madison is to go on tour among Southern towns for a few weeks. Then it will close for this season.

Madame Shumann-Heink says she is going to leave enough money to found and support a home for aged singers.

Grace Merritt has a new play called L. G.'s Wife. It is by Margaret Turnbull, co-author of Classmates, and is a story of political life.

Baker and Castle are to produce a musical comedy called Gay Matilda.

Maclyn Arbuckle has a new vaudeville sketch entitled The Reformed Candidate.

Lionel Barrymore and McKee Rankin are making a Southern tour in The White Slave.

Frohman's Difficulties.

Charles Frohman's difficulties this season in providing for his stars plays that would be suitable and at the same time profitable, have been apparent since the beginning of the New Year. Maude Adams was given the part of Chantecler, essentially a masculine character, to portray, and at once the suggestion arose that Otis Skinner, who had been rather unsatisfactorily provided for with "Sire," should have had the part. What then would have become of Miss Adams? Only a revival, perhaps, would have been possible, for when it came to looking after Ethel Barrymore there was nothing new in the Frohman office, and even Kyrle Bellew had to fall back upon a success of eight or more years ago, "Raffles," in order that he might tour the country with profit. William Gillett retorted to a repertoire of old successes, with encouraging financial results, and Francis Wilson went on the road again in his farce, "The Bachelor's Baby." Most of the new offerings under the Frohman banner failed to win approval of the public, and it might have been that Miss Barrymore, in one of these undesired novelties, would have struggled with adversity. The happy solution of the difficulty in her case was made with the production of "Trelawney of the Wells," first of all, latterly with "Alice Sit-by-the-Fire," in which five years ago she gave the first sign of a new Ethel Barrymore, an actress not dependent upon youth, or beauty or upon family name, for her place as a star. Since that period she has developed greatly in her characterizations and the revival of the Barrie play, with Alice as its central figure, brings to light something of the developed art of the actress, in contrast with the work she did five years ago in the same role.

But there was one new thing that Frohman could allow his popular star to have, and that was the one-act play written by Barrie especially for her and designated rather oddly "The Twelve-Pound Look." That was the feature of the performances by Miss Barrymore last week, and it was found to be a much more absorbing bit of writing than the "Alice" play, with all its delightful, but whimsical, qualities. Miss Barrymore in this new play puts aside the manner of matronly Alice and is seen as a self-reliant young woman, whose poise and whose firmness of voice are indicative of the independence of the bread-winner. This little play is an incisive lesson to men who can see nothing in life but the luxuries of living expensively, and ought to delight every feminine mind that has a tendency toward untrammeled womanhood. Somebody really ought to capture a few plays such as this is for vaudeville, which is overburdened with the impossible in serious one-act pieces. Both "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire" and "The Twelve-Pound Look" are entertaining, and they make the visit of Miss Barrymore one of the pleasures of the theatrical season.—Philadelphia Press.

A QUEER COURT TRIAL.

Dealing Out Justice to a Chimpanzee In West Africa.

The following strange incident is related by Captain George A. Briggs and occurred during his stay on the west coast of Africa about ten years ago. A chimpanzee named John who was owned by a high official one day broke from his chain and, strolling unconcernedly down the main thoroughfare, scattered the crowds before him. A native woman who was vending dainties dropped her tray and, even forgetting her small child, fled with the crowd.

The chimpanzee soon spied the tray of dainties and devoured them in a most convincing manner. The child, seeing all the sweets disappear, attacked the chimpanzee by the tail, but a bite from the brute sent the child yelling at the top of his lung power.

This so infuriated the natives that they made a combined attack on John, and his lease of life would have been cut short had not his owner appeared. He faced the crowd and assured them that every man would be tendered his due. For a similar offense, he inquired, whether a man would not have to stand his trial in court.

"Yah, yah!" was the shout.

"Then," said John's owner, "let the woman appear in court tomorrow with the child and all the witnesses, and I promise you John will be there like a man to stand trial and take whatever punishment may be doled out to him."

The next morning the court was crowded when John appeared, chained and carried by several policemen. He was placed in the dock, and the charge of larceny and assault was read to him.

His master turned to him and, asking him if he had any defense to offer, was answered by the usual grunts of delight that John indulged in whenever his master greeted him.

The master then informed the judge that John had pleaded guilty and had no defense to offer. The judge, after due deliberation, sentenced the brute to three months, and he was led away to prison, where he served his sentence.—New York Herald.

THE WAY TO PEACE

How One Family Contrives to Live In Harmony.

NO RATS, PUFFS OR HOBBLES

Women Have Got to Dress Themselves Like Mme. Recamier This Spring if They Would Be in Line With the Styles.

Dear Elsa—You know that I always talk or, rather, write things out to you. Now, I'm going to unload the idea uppermost in my mind right now. A rather pessimistic friend of mine who has just left the house declared while visiting me that "nature never intended three adult daughters to share the same roof."

My contention was that in these days of late marriages they are frequently obliged to. I did admit, though, that it was often trying to exist within the confines of a city flat, as this girl does, and be on speaking terms with one's female relations. Nevertheless I know of one case in which the problem has been solved right here in New York. A couple of years ago three sisters held a family conference, when it was decided that the great cause of trouble between relatives was too much familiarity, and it was resolved that they would treat one another with the same courtesy and consideration that they would show toward a guest.

Previously they had, like most families, never laid stress upon the rights of property. Under the new regime borrowing became a venial sin in itself, while borrowing without permission was absolutely tabooed. To show you how the rule worked: If Kate's umbrella lost its handle at a crucial moment no longer did she seize upon the first umbrella that happened to be at hand, whether belonging to Margaret or Marjory or anybody else. And if Jane discovered in her hurried preparations to get to a bridge or luncheon that her sole remaining pair of white gloves were soiled no longer did she rummage around in other places not belonging to her to repair the loss with gloves her sister was reserving perhaps for some special occasion.

When Marjory now answers the ring at the telephone and an unrecognized masculine voice inquires for "Miss Margaret," Marjory merely passes over the receiver and leaves the room to avoid overhearing the conversation. In days of old she would have remained glued to the spot and shamelessly strained every nerve to find out the man's identity and what he was saying to Margaret.

When roses or violets are left at the door no one inquires as to the sender. When one of the girls is invited out for the evening the other two silently hook up her dress, with never a prying inquiry as to where she is going, who is going to take her and whether she thinks he will order a taxicab. This later repression must be an awful strain, don't you think? But to continue. Never do they glance at the signatures on stray postcards or scan the handwriting of letters brought to the breakfast table. In short, in every possible way they respect one another's right to privacy. Isn't it splendid? The only objection I would have to such an arrangement is that if one lived with a lot of angels like that how would one know one's family were human beings at all?

No Rats, Puffs or Hobbles.

Now, as the advertising people put it, I reckon you'd like to have a little "style talk." Here goes. I will begin with the spring coiffure. Throw away your rats and puffs; you'll not need them in the new hairdressing. Look at pictures of Mme. Recamier and you will be enlightened as to how to do your hair. All the women here in New York who keep up with the styles are buying copies of the great picture of Mme. Recamier which hangs in the Louvre. As you will see by the presentment, the hair is combed smoothly over the head and brow and parted in the middle of the forehead. The hair is then done up at the back of the head in a coil or sort of Psyche knot in the Flemish fashion.

With the rats and puffs goes the hobble skirt, but it is not dealt with so violently as the hairdressing adjuncts. It is permitted to gasp awhile before dying. Women who like it may console themselves with a sort of empire gown having a short bodice and plain scant skirt, and the shade will be "vert empire," the green of Napoleon.

But, to come back to hair, a life of baldness was staring American women in the face, so hygienic people say. If the practice of false hair had continued, they assert, women would have found themselves without a root of hair with which to anchor a stitch.

As usual, we will go to the other extreme. The gentler sex must wear only their own hair this spring and as little of that as possible. Women with extra heavy crops of hair may have to cut switches from their own crown to be in fashion.

I was supping with the Van D.'s last Sunday evening, and the tea cakes they served were the most delicious things I have eaten for some time. They gave me the recipe, by the way, a formula that has been in their family for generations. I will pass it on to you. Sift a quart of flour, half a cupful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar and one of soda or three of baking powder. After sifting rub in a heaping tablespoonful of butter. Add the yolks of two eggs and enough milk to make a stiff batter. Just before putting in the pans fold in the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Bake in a sheet pan, spreading the mixture out to a thickness of one inch and a half. Bake in a hot oven. Serve hot, broken into large pieces. I do hope you will try this tea cake recipe and the success you have tell to MABEL.

P. S.—How do you like the empire dress in the sketch? It is of navy blue voile trimmed with bands of heavy cream lace.

New Wall Paper.

The principal beauty of the new papers lies in the lovely colors. Some of the prettiest are almost plain, but not quite so. The absolutely plain papers have not the depth of color and variety that we find in those with a slight figure of some kind, even if it is only a line. The hairline stripes are still with us, but they have improved these by breaking the stripes with tiny self toned figures. There is one lovely gray paper, a hairline broken here and there with a little gray rose. A beautiful lavender paper also has a hairline background, but it is broken up into diamonds. The charm lies in the beautiful color.—Harper's Bazar.

To Clean Upholstering.

Housewives are well acquainted with the fact that upholstered furniture is a lurking place for germs and dirt. It is well to know that it may be kept clean without taking outdoors to beat or without raising a cloud of dust. Wring out of warm water a cloth which is not linty. Spread over chair or sofa and beat with a rattan beater, then turn the cloth and beat over the other side. Several cloths may be necessary, but all of the dust will finally cling to the surface. To remove dust from tufts use a small, stiff toothbrush moistened with hot water.

good, becoming model. It is made of panama straw and is faced with black velvet. Around the crown is draped a black and white checked sash which is tied in a pretty, becoming bow at the left side.

Waterproof Suit Cases.

"Straw matting suit cases and shopping bags," says the Woman's Home Companion, "can be very much improved in looks and usefulness by a coat of cheap wagon varnish, which makes them waterproof. A good wetting will generally spoil them, but the varnish causes them to shed water like a duck. This should be done once a year."

A Woman Appointed Receiver.

Miss Emilie Bullowa, a woman lawyer of New York city, was recently appointed receiver for a firm of milliners by Judge Holt.

She came to the attention of the judge in January of last year when she won a suit regarding a patent in thirteen days, which established a record for such a case.

She Can Tell How Old a Soul Is.

Mrs. E. M. Hand, "supreme one" of a new spiritualistic movement which will have a $500,000 temple of divine inspiration in New York city, says she can see an "old soul" when she meets it.

Speaking of John D. Rockefeller, she says:

"The man who works on the street is a younger soul than Rockefeller and other successful men. Mr. Rockefeller's spirit is probably some few thousand years old. He has had no doubt several incarnations. In his past existences here on earth his ambition, his life and work no doubt were devoted to the desire for wealth."

Chinese Woman Arrives to Lecture.

Dr. Yamei Kin, the only Chinese woman graduate of an American medical school, and her protegee, Miss Hsui Lan Pai, who will study medicine at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, arrived in this country recently. Dr. Kin was one of the honor students at the Woman's Medical college of the New York infirmary some years ago and now heads the woman's medical department of northern China, with headquarters at Peiyang. Miss Pai is an eighteen-year-old Manchu girl.

Women Still Bind the Feet In China.

"There is less binding of the feet," says Dr. Yamei Kin, "but there is some. The difficulty is perhaps with the taste of the men. They admire artificiality. All men do. Don't you think so? The Chinese man likes the bound foot and the mincing step it entails just as your men like big hats, eighteen inch waists and extraordinary clothes. Some of our women who do not bind the feet get the same effect by wearing a very high heel inside the small Chinese shoe. That leaves only a small pointed toe showing. There is not much difference between that practice and the French heels some of your women wear. But perhaps your men are responsible for that too."

Newspaper For Children.

A daily newspaper exclusively for children, to be published in New York, is the project of Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke of Nashville, Tenn. Her idea is to conduct the daily the same as any other newspaper, except that such reading matter as is sensational or otherwise objectionable for little readers will be omitted.

PLANT ASSASSINS.

Flowers That Attract, Imprison and Kill Their Insect Victims.

Many plant murders are accomplished with a refinement of detail that makes it easy to believe that the crimes are premeditated. The sarracenias furnish an example of so called plant reasoning. These vivacious natives of the swamp lands of North America, notably Florida, have traveled from America to the botanical gardens of Europe.

Their flowers, which are purplish or of a fine yellow color, attract and invite the confidence of insects. Their leaves are rolled like a cornucopia and provided at the broad end with a lid. Into these urnlike sepulchers winged and creeping victims fall, never to return to light and air. Attracted by the color and the odor of the flowers, the victims draw near and, poised upon their stems, scent their honey. Little by little they approach the cup, hover for an instant on its edge, then begin the descent. Possibly they do not see the spearlike points set like the stakes of the fisher's weir in the lining of the cup. The victims go down between the stakes and feast on honey.

When full they turn to climb to the outer world. Again and again they ascend a hair's breadth, only to fall back, until, exhausted by their futile efforts, they drop into the poisoned water where float the sodden bodies of the flies trapped before them.

A naturalist who observed the death struggles of insects trapped by this rapacious and treacherous plant saw one lying half in, half out of the water, making desperate efforts to free itself from the trap. The lower part of its body, the part under water, was paralyzed, glued to immobility by the secretion contained in the water.

"There was something horrible," said the naturalist, "in the artifice used by the plant in its capture of the animal. The plant lures the animal to its doom by giving it a feast. The honey is a trap, and to all appearance the holder of the trap is a cold blooded, calculating assassin."—Harper's Weekly.

Warning to Railroad Men

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroading. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroading left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends." Howard Gardner.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time. It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide. NEWS OF SPORTS

Paragraqhic Bunts at Some Big League Baseball Boys

Manager McGraw is making a hard effort to have his pitchers learn to bunt. All but Mathewson and Wiltse are shy in that particular.

Eugene Moore and John Mercer have been recalled by the Pittsburg club from Jersey City, owing to change of ownership in that club.

Infielder Claude Ritchey is practicing with the Pirates this spring. He will start the season at second base for the Louisville Colonels.

The Naps are now looking to Gregg as the long-looked-for southpaw. The young Westerner is showing great early-season form down South.

According to early training season dope, Infielder Kehoe and Outfielder Walter Schaller will secure the substitute berths on the Detroit team.

The Naps will wear the same kind of uniforms this season as last—white with black trimmings at home and blue-gray with black trimmings abroad.

Denny Knauf, a diminutive outfield candidate with the Highlanders, will receive $2.000 from his rich father if he sticks with the team until June.

Manager Griffith, of Cincinnati, says Bob Bescher is the greatest baserunner seen in the game since Bill Lange's day. What has he on Eddie Collins?

Johnny Evers' ankle has been pronounced perfectly sound again by physicians. This will be anything but pleasant news to the recruits after Johnny's job.

The Chicago Cubs have won 536 games in the past five seasons, four pennants and two world's championships. In 1906 the team won 116 games; in 1907, 107 games; in 1908, 99 games; in 1909, 104 games, and last year 104 games.

Two young pitchers, Barney Echreiber and Tom Rougherty, are showing flashes of fire in the Reds' workout. However, Griff figures that with McMoren he has a pretty classy collection of hurlers.

Third Baseman Jimmy Austin expects to hit better with the Browns next season than he did with the Yankees last year, because the Browns have few left-hand batters and will see little left-hand pitching.

"Jiggs" Donahue, after a boiling out at Hot Springs, Ark., is displaying so much of his former agility that ball players at that resort say he will surely cover first base for the Chicago White Sox this year.

Jimmy Murray, one of Bobby Wallace's outfielders, is a member of the life-saving crew at Ormond Beach. He is in such good physical trim that the St. Louis Browns' manager has given him until March 14 to report.

If John Henry, the Amherst College boy, was not absolutly needed behind the bat, Manager McAleer, of Washington, would undoubtedly play him on the first corner, for his showing to date has been of the stellar variety.

Where is Togo Hammanoto, the Japanese athlete, who was going to train with the Giants at Marlin springs? Togo burned up the cables getting permission from Manager McGraw to get inside information on training a baseball team, and McGraw gave him permission to join the camp. But he hasn't appeared, and nothing has been heard from him.

"Slim" Sallee has clambered abroad the sprinkling cart and taken a seat beside his old pal, ex-Bugs Raymond. The Cardinal pitcher reported to Manager Bresnahan in excellent trim and declares his only ambition in life at present is to pitch the Mount City team into a first division berth.

Johnny Evans is the latest man to be put in arms over the story that Harry Steinfeldt, of the Cubs, is to be succeeded this season by a youngster. Johnny says that any new man would have to be at least 25 per cent. better as a player than Harry to make up for the latter's knowledge of the Cub's style of play.

Outfielder "Doc" Gessler, of Washington, believes that smoking injured his batting eye last year, and he has quit the use of the weed since the advent of 1911. Gessler believes that nicotine will in time dim the eyesight of anybody.

So far the trip of the Boston Red Sox to California for spring training has been fruitless. The players have encountered rainy weather ever since their arrival and have been compelled to remain indoors. The expenses are mounting up with nothing coming in.

Of the Cleveland squad of 36 men at least 20 are more than six feet tall. Falkenberg tops all comers with his six feet five inches, and Addie Joss is next in line with his six feet three inches. The shortest man on the team is Knaupp, who stands only five feet seven inches.

Kid Elberfeld has a unique way of not overworking his arms in spring practice. One day he throws with his right hand and the next with his left, and being ambidextrous he performs equally well with both whips. He is the hardest worker on the Washington squad.

St. Louis fans have an idea that First Baseman McAuley, of the Browns, may prove another Konetchy, because he hails from the same organization that also produced the Cardinals' star, the Wisconsin-Illinois League. This organization also produced Fred Luderus, of the Phillies, and John Ness, of the Tigers.

Norris ("Tip") O'Neill, advance man for the Red Sox, is quoted in Los Angelese as saying: "The sun must shine, that's all there is to it." King Canute in his palmist days had very little on Mr. O'Neill when it comes to giving orders—but the sun didnt shine, the Red Sox losing five successive days through rain.

Davy Jones has been picked by Manager Jennings, of the Tigers, as a model batsman. He is telling all his players to imitate Davy. Each day Jones stands at the plate and the other left-handers are arranged behind him. Davy shows the proper position, the proper footwork and the way to bring the bat against the ball and start for first.

From Monroe, La., comes a story to the effect that Cobb is not on speaking terms with another player on the Detroit team; that the Tigers do not address him unless he speaks first; and that Cobb's best play does not draw any applause from his teammates, and the more often he strikes out the better his fellow players are pleased.

Harold Janvrin, the 18-year-old Boston High School lad, is the bright particular star of the Red Sox training camp on the coast. The youngster is making a remarkably clever showing, according to the war correspondents with the team, and is bound to become a major league star in time. He has a superb athletic build.

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Many elderly people have found in Foley's Kidney Remedy a quick relief and permanent benefit from kidney and bladder ailments and from annoying urinary irregularities due to advancing years. Isaac N. KRUPP'S GREAT FACTORY.

The Largest Single Industrial Plant In the World.

A recent census of the great Krupp works of Germany proves conclusively that it is the largest single industrial plant in the world, employing 68,726 workers. The number includes officials, clerks, skilled workmen and laborers. These workers, with their families, would make a fairly respectable city even in these times of large cities. On the basis of three persons to each worker the total would be more than 200,000, not to count the grocers, butchers, dry goods and clothing merchants and other business men who would be supported by the Krupp toilers and their families in addition. The total number directly dependent upon the Krupp works is in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million persons—a city as large as St. Paul.

Of the workers, 37,761 are employed in the steel foundry and gun testing grounds. Coal and coke amounting to 2,491,406 tons were consumed in the year from July 1, 1909, to July 1, 1910.

The steam engines number 569, developing 89,430 horsepower. In addition to having its own plant for the production of electricity, the firm possesses its own gas producing plant, which turned out 18,487,300 cubic meters (nearly 60,000,000 cubic feet) of gas. One of the important features of the works is the railway system, consisting of eighty-seven miles of track, fifty-three locomotives and 2,396 cars or "wagons."—Chicago Tribune.

Language Question In Belgium.

The language question in Belgium has been settled in favor of French so far as Brussels is concerned. The Belgian parliament decided some time ago that the choice between instruction in French or in Flemish in the public schools of the capital should be left to the pupils' parents. A canvass of three of the largest schools resulted in an overwhelming vote for the French language. Of the parents of pupils in the first school 261 out of a total of 264 selected French, in the second 339 out of 340 made the same choice, while in the case of the third school, situated in an overwhelmingly Flemish quarter, 456 parents out of 470 decided for the same language, the total being therefore: French, 1,074; Flemish, 18.—London Globe.

A Word For the Mustache.

Dr. Paul Krager, a well known physician of Vienna, affirms that the mustache has a distinct value for the health. He believes that its utility lies in protecting the nose against the invasion of dust and bacteria. Recording 500 cases of severe headache and throat and nose trouble among his men patients, he found that 420 of them had their upper lip clean shaven. One has only to consider the function of the eyelashes in protecting the eye from dust and small particles to see that there is nothing unreasonable about the doctor's conclusion.

Unearthed a Palace.

Mr. J. Garstang has recommended excavations at the buried city of Meroe, on the Nile. He has discovered a palace, a bathroom in perfect preservation, the walls of an acropolis, quays and a harbor. A bronze head with inlaid eyes, larger than life—an excellent piece of Greek art—was also unearthed.—London Times.

Look For the Hose With This Mark on the Toes

There are many kinds of guaranteed hosiery but they are all imitations of the original "Holeproof."

When your husband goes out to buy sox, tell him to insist on "Holeproof"—tell him to look on the toes for our trademark.

This means more than you think—it means that if any holes appear within six months we give you new hosiery free.

But that is not all, the hosiery itself is more stylish and comfortable than any other on the market.

FAMOUS Holeproof Hosiery FOR MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

The makers use only the finest and softest cotton from Egypt and the Sea Islands. They pay 63 cents a pound, but could buy ordinary cotton at 12 cents a pound.

The yarn is three-ply in the body and doubled to six-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Common hosiery is made of two-ply yarn throughout yet it costs you as much as "Holeproof."

Comfort is supreme in "Holeproof"—the fabric is as soft and smooth as silk. Style is increased for the hosiery is shaped to fit the ankle like a glove fits the hand.

Men's hose come in eleven attractive colors and women's in six. Price $1.50 to $3 a box of six pairs. Children's hose, in black and tan, at $2 a box of six pairs. Please come in and see this hosiery today—it costs no more than the ordinary.

PLAYING OFF SICK.

A Fable That May Act as a Tonic In Such a Case.

If you have anybody working for you and they lie down on their job don't fire them at once—just call them in and tell this story:

Down in Virginia a farmer had an ox and a mule that he hitched together to a plow. One night, after several days of continuous plowing and after the ox and mule had been stabled and provendered for the night, the ox said to the mule, "We've been working pretty hard; let's play off sick tomorrow and lie here in the stalls all day."

"You can if you want to," returned the mule, "but I believe I'll go to work."

So the next morning when the farmer came out the ox played off sick; the farmer bedded him down with clean straw, gave him fresh hay, a bucket of oats and bran mixed, left him for the day and went forth alone with the mule to plow.

All that day the ox lay in his stall, chewed his cud and nodded, slowly blinked his eyes and gently swished his tail.

That night when the mule came in the ox asked how they got along plowing alone all day. "Well," said the mule, "it was hard, and we didn't get much done, and"—

"Did the old man have anything to say about me?" interrupted the ox.

"No," replied the mule.

"Well, then," went on the ox, "I believe I'll play off again tomorrow. It was certainly fine lying here all day and resting."

"That's up to you," said the mule, "but I'll go out and plow."

So the next day the ox played off again, was bedded down with clean straw, provendered with hay, bran and oats and lay all day nodding, blinking, chewing his cud and gently swishing his tail.

When the mule came in at night the ox asked again how they had got along without him.

"About the same as yesterday," replied the mule coldly.

"Did the old man have anything to say to you about me?" again inquired the ox.

"No," replied the mule, "not to me, but he did have a long talk with the butcher on the way home."—Gibson's Magazine.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away. Greensboro People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, kidney weakness may be the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills make sick kidneys well. Can Greensboro readers demand further proof than the following statement:

H. C. Poole, 601 E. Green St., High Point, N. C., says: "Some time ago I noticed that my kidneys were not doing their work properly, the kidney secretions being irregular in passage and causing me a great deal of distress. My back was so weak that after stooping, I had to take hold of something and pull myself up again. I was troubled by dizzy spells and my head ached constantly. My rest at night was broken and in the morning I was so tired and weak that I could hardly drag myself around. Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me and I am grateful to them."

is a very common expression.

Are you one of the unfortunates,—and what is the cause?

There are hundreds of people right in this vicinity who have poor blood, are run-down, all tired out, with no strength, vitality or ambition.

We claim it will make pure, rich red blood, and impart new life, energy and strength to every person who does not feel well. If it fails we will return your money—without question. Isn't this a fair and generous offer?

A case is reported from Leispsic, Ind.—Mrs. C. R. Catlin was troubled with indigestion—was weak—all run-down. She says Vinol cured her stomach trouble,—restored her strength,—and made her feel like a new woman. Anyone in her condition can get the same benefit from Vinol. The county authorities have decided to pay to the Gregory boys the $50 reward offered for the capture of Moses Speaks. The sheriff of Yadkin county and others wanted the reward divided, but the entire amount will go to the young men who effected the capture. The boys, who were wounded by Speaks, are getting along nicely. The county yesterday paid to the physician who attended the boys $25 as his fee for medical attention rendered the boys.

TALK THAT TALKS.

If you would now be erudite
And stand in with the gang
You must get busy with the dope
And sling the classy slang.
It's got us goin', and then some,
It's got our talk for fair.
Without it you are to the bad
And won't get anywhere.
Your girl's a little bear or skirt
Or kiddo—oh, you kid!
To be polite you show a front.
Your Kelly's now a lid.
Your friends are to the good or straight
Or on the Fritz—among
The dippy in the foolish box
Or in some manner stung.
You once were wont to walk and run
Or else perhaps pursue.
You beat it now or chase yourself
Or ramble or skiddoo.
There was a time with your wife's friends
You went and took a drink.
You gargle now or lap highballs
With some booze fighting gink.
Believe me, it is true, get wise,
And cinch it all by rote,
For if you don't it's nix for yours—
It sure will get your goat.
—Powell T. Manning in Puck.

A Popular Bell.

Punctured.

He had been boasting proudly about the quality of his machine, and pretty nearly everybody within earshot had grown excessively weary.

"For speed it's a dandy," he concluded, "but it costs like the dickens to keep it in repair."

"Well," said a stranger who had come into the smoker a trifle late to hear the beginning of the talk, "perhaps you haven't got the best. Now, I've got a machine that's a corker for speed, too, and I don't believe I've spent more than—well, not more than 85 cents in repairs in two years."

"Eighty-five cents!" cried the boastful one. "Nonsense! Why, the mere idea of speed alone involves a greater wear and tear, to say nothing of breakages, than that. Maybe our ideas of speed differ," he added condescendingly. "Just how high can you run?"

"Three hundred words a minute," said the stranger.

"Words?" demanded the boastful one scornfully.

"Why, yes," said the stranger. "You were talking about typewriting machines, weren't you?"

Whereupon the boastful one exploded with a loud report and a sibilant hiss.—Harper's Weekly.

Too Marvelous.

"Dug 'em out of th' ground?" exclaimed the old gentleman from up state, looking at the case of vases from Herculaneum.

"Yes, sir," answered the attendant.

"What, jist as they be?"

"Perhaps some little pains have been taken in cleaning them, but in other respects they are the same."

"Pshaw!" muttered the old man, turning away. "He can say what he likes, but, by gum, he can't fool me into believin' ready made vases were ever dug up out of th' ground!"—Metropolitan Magazine.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

You wouldn't ask your neighbor to build a house for you, if he was not equipped and had had no experience? Naturally you would go to a builder or contractor.

Then why ask a neighbor or friend to serve as executor or trustee of your estate? He is busy. He is inexperienced.

The Greensboro Loan & Trust Co.

makes it a specialty to act as trustee or executor, guardian or administrator. It charges the same as the inexperienced individual would charge—the law fixes the price.
